Girl Up is a 50 min documentary about a girl who was a victim of domestic human trafficking in Toronto, Canada and her journey to find the courage to fight and get her life back. The documentary sheds light on domestic human trafficking that happens regularly in the first world countries, but no one wants to know or talk about it.

Girl Up had a world premiere at the 18th Annual Filmi: Toronto's South Asian Film Festival.

"I wanted to give a voice to the voiceless."
